EDITOR-GAZETTE:

In accordance with my promise, I will endeavor to give you a small write-up from the eastern part of the good old county of Lavaca, for as the Egyptian who has quenched his thirst in the turbid tide of the narrow Nile, will surely return again to its shores, so have I returned to the place of my early childhood to enjoy for a short season that sweet and subtle pleasure found only around the hearth at home. The winter months with their short and busy days will pass all right, and in the glories of spring one can forget, but when the golden summer with its hot and long days shall come, is there in all this great wide world a lone wanderer whose heart does not long for the pleasures of home, sweet home, where we can lay aside all the petty cares and sorrows of our changing existence in the great regime of life and as the Great Redeemer has said, become as a little child again and enter the heaven of home's rest and joys, for—

A mother's glad smile is imaged there

And eyes that never knew a tear.

Savvies of happiness.

Beams on the hearts that wander back

Over the long and beaten track Of worn wildness,
To feel his in these joys that come Like angels around the heart at home.

When the Christmas trees are come there is nobody's cake and nobody's turkey like mother's, and no one can make such eggnog as dad's, and so it is with the glorious old Fourth of July—no other girls can dance like those at home, and the boys whom we fought and played with in early childhood can yell "Hurrah for the Fourth of July" louder and better than anyone else; at least everyone thinks so, and that is why I left Old Valley

View Farm on the morning of July 2, to board the train at Shiner, at which place we arrived at 10 o'clock Monday, and after a pleasant delay of two hours, spent in conversation with the Shiner boys,

I departed for Sublime, way down here in the sandy land, where E.
O. Melton, the great champion of the Third party, says the people don't wear any socks.

After boarding the train at Shiner the heat became so intense that the mercury stood at 104 degrees in the shade. The heat was so great in Yorkton that one man declared that hell was only half a mile off. I am not much of a scriptorian, but I am inclined to believe like him. The wind blew in at the coach windows as hot as ever came from a furnace. The faces of ladies and little children became scarlet and every one panted like dogs.

I found Dr. Coppage, an old friend of mine, in company with Mr. Glass both of Concrete, DeWitt county, going home from the Texas Baptist Association. The Dr. is an old and well known citizen and said he had never experienced such heat before. Next I met August

Schumaker and daughter returning from a visit in Shiner. They were accompanied home by the Misses Dyer, of Shiner.

We arrived in Sublime at 12:30 Monday, the 2nd and prepared to enjoy the basket dinner on the 3rd.

The morning dawned bright and clear and in spite of the chance of a hot day many people came and brought their dinners, and as good luck would have it the day was moderately warm and every one enjoyed the occasion in the fullest sense of the word. The main turnout was at the ball that night at the Sublime City Hall.

The fairest flowers from the gardens of humanity were there and the boys were both handsome and gallant. Music was furnished by the Recaway string band. Fair faces were lit up with sweet smiles
